Introduction

The sale provides an extremely rare opportunity to acquire a manageable sized mixed residential, agricultural, sporting and amenity Estate in an accessible yet unspoilt situation in the Cleveland Hills on the western edge of the North York Moors National Park. The Estate lies nearly 14 miles north of the market town of Helmsley close to some of the most highly regarded and renowned shoots in the North of England. The Estate which now extends to approximately 1,345 acres including sporting rights over neighbouring land has been enhanced by a number of acquisitions by the Benson family since the commercial woodlands were first bought in the late 1990's.

Ewe Hill is the principal house centrally located within the Estate which has been modernised and refurbished to provide attractive high quality accommodation with five bedrooms and potential for further expansion if required into the adjoining traditional stone ranges. Ewe Hill lies within approximately 150 acres of attractive farming and amenity grassland currently farmed on short term licences. Investment farms include West Cote Farm a 164 acre livestock farm with traditional farmhouse and buildings let on an AHA Tenancy together with Staindale Farm which extends to a further 84 acres let on a 13 year FBT in addition to which there is a bare land AHA letting of land at Cockflatt and an FBT on land at Low Crossletts.

A particular feature is the Estate woodlands extending to approximately 358 acres which have been commercially managed and contain significant commercial timber resources with felling licences in place until 2026. There is access to the three main woods known as Raisdale Mill, Crossletts and Roundhill Plantations accessed from a high quality forest track for commercial timber buyers.

These three woods total approximately 87 ha (215 acres), and are offered as Lot 2 subject to the reservation of sporting rights. In all there are eight major woodland blocks mainly running along the western edge of the Estate adding significantly to the amenity and sporting value of the Estate. The sporting rights which have been acquired on 999 year Leases over approximately 480 acres enable maximum potential to be gained from the farms and woodland and have enabled a well-regarded low ground shoot to be established providing 10 days shooting for up to 10 guns most years. Opportunities such as this are extremely rare.

Location

The Raisdale Estate lies predominantly to the west side of Raisdale Road which links Chop Gate (1.5 miles) with Carlton-in-Cleveland (4.5 miles). From Chop Gate the B1257 leads south to the market town of Helmsley or north to Stokesley. The A172 provides access on to the A19 trunk road (10 miles) providing access to the north east or south to the A1 or York via Thirsk.

The East Coast mainline railway station at Northallerton is located 18 miles from the Estate. Durham Tees Valley airport is only 20 miles North West of the Estate.

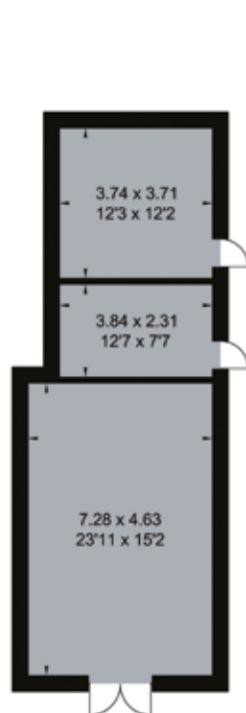

The House

Ewe Hill lies in a glorious unspoilt location within the heart of the Estate with access from a good quality private internal Estate track. The house itself has been fully refurbished and modernised providing well-proportioned family accommodation with five bedrooms extending to approximately 2,822 sqft. Stone flag floors, beamed ceilings, log burners and an electric Aga with Aims add to the character and warmth and specific features include the underfloor heating downstairs, hand built oak units in the kitchen, the oak staircase, doors and double glazed windows.

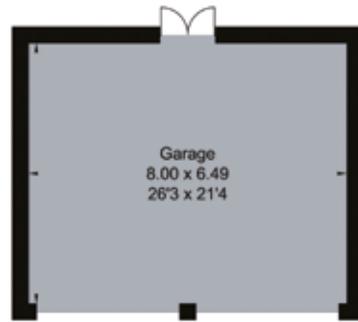

Adjoining the house is a single storey range of stores extending to approximately 985 sqft offering potential for ancillary accommodation subject to planning. Consent has previously been granted for conversion of the stone barn (outbuilding one) to a music room approximately 876 sqft which has now expired. The modern portal frame building (17.87m x 16.57m) provides over 300m² of storage or livestock accommodation.

Sporting

The sporting activities on the Estate has been designed to take advantage of the commercial woodland which lies along the western boundary of the Estate up to 300-400 metres above sea level from where the land falls to the Raisdale beck which runs north south through the centre of the Estate between 160 and 250 metres above sea level from where the land again gently rises towards Raisdale road on the eastern boundary between 200 and 280 metres above sea level. The natural contours of the land together with smaller woodland blocks adjacent to the beck, wooded valleys and hill sides, form a perfect back drop for a mixed low ground shoot.

Currently pheasant and partridge are reared for the benefit of a syndicate shoot providing 10 days shooting for 10 guns plus three boundary days. Bags are typically in the order of 150-200 bird days. There are 10 drives and typically 3-4 cover crops drilled. There is one part time keeper. In addition to the shooting there is some excellent Roe Deer stalking available on the Estate, Trout fishing on the stream and previously duck flighting on the ponds.

Woodland

The woodlands are a valuable asset to the Estate containing an interesting mix of commercial woodlands of varying size and character. Ranging in size from 5 to 89 hectares totalling 144 hectares these have been professionally managed since acquisition by the current owners and are in the process of being restructured and replanted with both commercial species and broadleaf trees thus creating new areas of conservation interest.

Nearly all of the woodlands were originally established by the Forestry Commission during the late sixties and early seventies, the planting undertaken was deliberately commercial. Species such as Sitka spruce, Scots pine, Larch, Norway spruce and Lodgepole pine were all planted to create productive woodland as quickly as possible. This policy has been largely successful with several good sized woodlands being the result. The current owners of the estate have obtained a strong cash flow following these operations, and the approved management plan allows for much of the future felling or thinning of the remainder of the mature crops which now total some 67 hectares. Markets for the timber produced on this estate continue to go from strength to strength with world shortages of timber and resulting price rises that have given the UK market an increasing and sustained injection of capital. As with all commercially managed woodland there is also an opportunity to take advantage of the various tax advantages open to woodland owners.

Lot 2

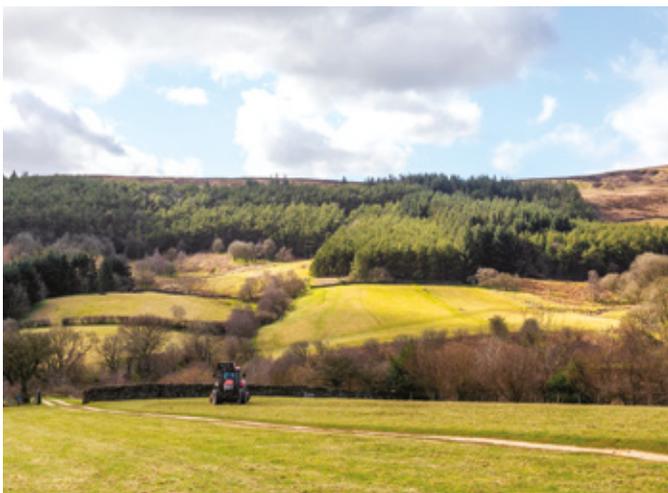

Evidence of the success of the current timber crops is visible within several areas of the estate. Most notable are the three woodlands known as Raisdale Mill, Crossletts and Round Hill Plantations. Lot 2 of the estate sale. Totalling 87ha (215 acres) over half of the estate woodland area is contained in these small forests.

Connected sequentially by a high quality engineered forest road these three woodlands are the core commercial forests on the estate. Over the past ten years each of the forests has been partially restructured through carefully considered felling coupes to create a more visually appealing patchwork of crops and age class. Several areas have been felled and replanted and others have been thinned for the future. Despite recent felling over 56 hectares of mature timber remains. In particular there is also an area in Roundhill that remains totally untouched which clearly demonstrates the commercial opportunities available on this estate. Stocked with Sitka spruce over its entire area this woodland shows visitors the production potential for timber offered.

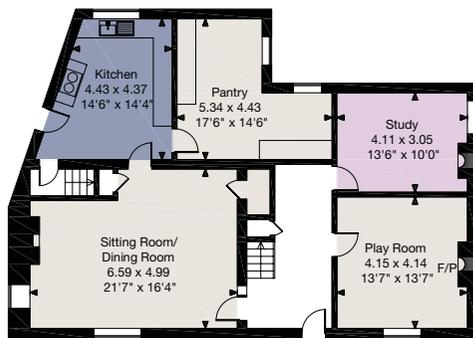

A new owner should be able to continue this felling and replanting plan into the future with regular timber income. It is expected that with competent ground preparation, improved planting stock, combined with excellent forest soils, these woodlands will be even better value in future, with promising productive thinning regimes and shorter crop rotations.

The selling agent holds various information that an interested woodland purchaser might wish to obtain. These include a Woodland Management Plan valid until 2025 covering WGS grant contract, felling licenses and compartment schedules/plans.

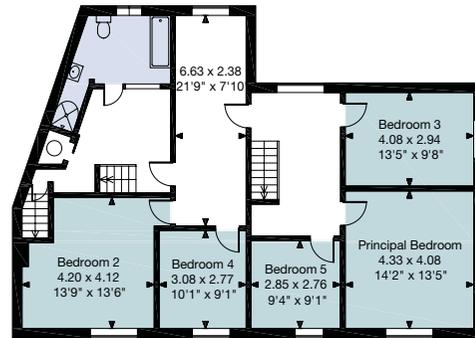

Visitors to the site may notice a small stack of timber in Roundhill. This timber will remain the property of the vendor following the sale.

The Farms

Historically the farmland has been let under a number of different tenancies with the commercial farmland mainly lying at the southern end of the Estate where there is highly productive good sized level meadows and ploughable pasture and grazing. The majority lies within West Cote Farm which is let on an Agricultural Holdings Act Tenancy which includes a five bedroom traditional stone farmhouse (see floorplan) together with a range of farm buildings of traditional and modern construction.

To the south of West Cote Farm lies approximately 48 acres of productive grazing land known as Land at Cockflat, let on a traditional AHA tenancy with a further 19 acres of good quality pasture fronting on to Raisdale Road known as land at Low Crosslets which was let on a Farm Business Tenancy (FBT) for an initial two year period which is now rolling over.

The land around Ewe Hill has recently come back in hand and is mainly let on a short term agreement providing an opportunity for the purchaser to either farm the land or let it. The good quality pastures around Ewe Hill Farmhouse lead to grazing and amenity land with high conservation value as the land rises towards the north. It would be well suited for entry into Stewardship Schemes or potentially for further tree planting subject to necessary consents.

Staindale Farm is a separate ring fenced Farm extending to approximately 84 acres of mainly grazing land recently relet on an FBT with 13 years to run. There is a centrally placed traditional stone 3 bedroom farmhouse (see floorplan)
